

MESSMER SAYS IT'S A FAKE

Does Not Believe Report That All Catholic Marriages Not Performed In Churches, Void.

SAYS IT DOES NOT REFER TO U. S.

Archbishop Of Milwaukee Diocese Of The Roman Catholic Church Relieves The Minds Of Many Loyal Churchmen.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 29.—Archbishop Messmer of this city, head of the Wisconsin diocese of the Roman Catholic church in America, characterizes as a fake the newspaper dispatch stating that all marriages not performed by Catholic priests will hereafter be considered by the church
as void.

Dispatch Was Dated Rome.
The message in question was dated Rome and appeared in metropolitan papers a few days ago. It was extensively copied by papers throughout the country. It stated that a new rule, soon to be announced, declared invalid all nuptial knots tied by justices of the peace or protestant ministers.

Rome Not That Radical.
The archbishop says that the Pope of Rome is not so radical that he would take such a step without warning. He believes that the Pontiff would confer on such a matter with American prelates before taking action.

Council of Trent Provision.
In countries where a provision of the council of Trent is promulgated the church does not and has not recognized marriages solemnized by others than ordained priests. This has not been done in the United States except in a few places that were originally Catholic, such as St. Louis and some cities in California.

rine hospital surgeon here and counting vessels are being inspected by quarantine officers. Health officers say there is no cause for alarm.

BRAKEMAN MORAN IN A SERIOUS STATE

Ruptured Blood-Vessel in His Stomach
While Working at Cary, Ill.,
Last Evening.

George Moran, brakeman in the employ of the C. & N. W. Ry. Co. and son of Eugene Lawrence Moran of working at Cary, Ill., last evening.

A message sent to this city summoned his father and Dr. E. F. Woods. He is in a very serious condition according to the physician. The young man is about twenty-six years of age and unmarried.

SUIT FILED AGAINST NORTHWESTERN CO.

E. A. C. Hart Alleges Loss of Pigs—Several Judgments Entered in Local Courts.

Because 10 suckling pigs died while being transported from Jefferson to this city over the Northwestern and five others were lost through the negligence of the railroad's employees, E.
A. C. Hart alleges in a complaint made against the Northwestern that the railroad company owes him $72 damages. On July 15, this year, Hart declared that he had delivered to the railroad 50 small pigs in 13 crates
and during the transit from Jefferson to this city 13 of them smothered to death because of the closeness of the boxcar in which they were traveling. The case was brought before Justice Chas. W. Reeder this morning and was adjourned until September 16. Attorney E. H. Ryan appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney E. M. Heywer of Milwaukee appeared for the company.

Five judgments were entered this morning by Justice Reeder against men who were indebted to John Wirth while he was in the hotel and liquor business in Hanover a year since. A judgment was entered against Simon Olson for $7.20 for a liquor bill, against William Stenman for $9.05 for a liquor bill, against Louis Anderson for $7.15
on the same grounds, and against Keen Sorenson for $13.15 for a board bill.
The case of John Wirth versus Lawrence Ward was adjourned a week when brought up this morning. The case of the Gazette Printing company
against Lawrence Ward was also adjourned for a week. Before Justice Stanley Tallman this afternoon the case of the Gazette Printing company
against Geo. Keeter was brought up but adjourned until next Thursday.

Automobile Party: A Chicago touring car party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johns and the three Misses Johns, and Frank Connel, arrived from Delavan Lake this afternoon and are registered at the Hotel Myers.

Continue to Improve: Both Mrs.
Sutton Norris and Mrs. Homer Paul are recovering from their operations performed at the Mercy hospital. Reports this afternoon say that they are both doing nicely.

Married at Rockford: Nelson B.
Olin and Martha Evans, both residents of Spring Valley, were married in Rockford yesterday. The two are well known and have scores of friends who extend congratulations.

Retained in Mining Suit: Atty.
W. H. Dougherty and O. A. Oestreich of this city have been retained by Henry Zwicker of Cuba City to conduct his lawsuit against the Best Mining Co. in the forthcoming term of the circuit court in Lafayette county.
Zwicker was former owner of the mining lease for the land worked by the Culhac Lead & Zinc Mining Co. of Milwaukee and claims that by virtue of a written agreement filed with the register of deeds he was to have a 5 per cent interest in the mine, no matter who might subsequently operate
there. The Best Mining Co. succeeded to the interest of the Culhac Co.
and refused to comply with Mr.
Zwicker's demand for 5 per cent of its stock.

ROADS HAVE TROUBLE SHIPPERS' RIGHT TO ROUTE THE FREIGHT

Arguments to be Heard by State Railroad Commission on Two and a Half Cent Rate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—Much importance is attached to the meeting of the state board of railroad commissioners in this city today as it is expected it will mark the real beginning of a movement for the reduction of passenger rates in South Dakota.
The board will hear representatives of the railroads and other interested parties on the subject of the 2½-cent mile passenger rate authorized to be put into effect by the state legislature.

Meeting of Commercial Organization
at Chicago to Discuss Important Question.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 29.—Representatives of influential commercial organizations throughout the country were on hand today at the opening of the conference called by the National Industrial League. The expressed purpose of the league, which was formed at a conference here three weeks ago,
is to work together and make more effective the efforts of the members toward what some of them term commercial freedom. The league will endeavor to bring about a better cooperation between the shippers, railroads and the federal and state railroad commissions in matters of mutual concern.

Perhaps the most important subject
up for consideration at the present meeting is the ruling giving to the initial railroad the right to route their freight. The shippers believe that with the right route their freight as they please they will be able to secure better service from the roads, and they insist that it is their legal right.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP LOSES OUT IN SUPERIOR

Council Elected On Issue Found It Cheaper
To Enter Into Contract With Private Concern Than Build Lighting Plant.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Superior, Wis., Aug. 29.—Municipal ownership of lighting plant will be a thing of the past in Superior according to the vote of the common council last night when it was decided to make a contract with the lighting company at a lower rate than formerly. The contract is for one year but has a clause which may lengthen it to five years. Most of the aldermen and the mayor were elected on a municipal ownership platform but after attempting to build a lighting plant they came to the conclusion it was cheaper to make a new contract with the lighting company than building their own plant. There were only two votes in favor of municipal ownership and fourteen against it.

ALL-NIGHT DRIVING FEATURES AT MEET

Program of Interesting Events Planned for Auto Meet at State Fair Park Sept. 21 and 22.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 29.—All-night driving will be the feature of the two-day auto carnival at state fair park, under the auspices of the Milwaukee Auto Trade association and the Milwaukee Automobile club on Sept. 20 and 21. One of the main events is the "24-hour race," which begins Friday night and ends Saturday night.

The first day of the meet will be given over to short distance events,
in which a large number of automobiles from out in the state will compete. Novelty contests and the "all-night" event will comprise the second day sport.

Twenty cars are expected to start in the 24-hour race. An attempt will be made to run 1,000 miles in the approximate time. Recently in New York the winning car in a similar event recorded 997 miles, but scores at the recent auto derby at the state fair park would indicate that this mark can be exceeded, the track being exceptionally adapted for fast driving.

BACK TO JEFFERSON

Mr. Bryan playing Samson against the pillars of Federalism is a spectacle which ought to make conservative democrats report in tears their misapprehension of America's foremost Jeffersonian, says the New York Tribune. That honorable title, after Mr. Bryan's memorable Madison Square Garden speech of August, 1900, seemed in danger of lapsing to converts or aliens. The Hon. Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts and Major John A. Royburn of Philadelphia, both republicans, have lately been contesting the possession of Jefferson's mantle with the Hon. Patrick H. McCarren of the borough of Brooklyn. But now that the right of the states to nullify the guarantees of the constitution has been proclaimed by the governors of Alabama and North Carolina, and the southern states generally, without whose approval a presidential candidate cannot be named in the approaching democratic national convention, are suffering from a temporary recrudescence of Calhounism, Mr. Bryan's Jeffersonian blood is also stirred and he is eager to nail the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions to the mast as a gauge of battle next year to the benighted disciples of Hamilton.

The Nebraska statesman announces that he is violently opposed to the "centralizing" tendencies of the Roosevelt administration. He can sniff Hamiltonian heresies afar and sounds a trumpet call to democrats to combat and exterminate them. Mr. Bryan has made the discovery that President Roosevelt, in urging the regulation of railroads engaged in interstate commerce, is trying to shield these railroads from any regulation as regards their interstate operations by hostile state legislatures. "Democrats," he says, "can be depended upon to oppose with all their might this movement toward centralization."

It will be news to the anti-centralization element in the democratic party that Mr. Bryan can be depended upon to fight, bleed and die in defense of Jefferson's weak government theories. We do not recall that he has ever recanted his belief in the necessity of government ownership and operation of all the utilities of interstate commerce. He took up that issue and made it paramount on his return from Europe a year ago, and he has only recently modified his attitude by admitting that he was premature in urging government ownership and operation and that the people of the United States would only be satisfied to try first the experiment of federal regulation—an experiment which, he predicted, would end in absolute failure. Having advanced the most monumental scheme of "centralization" ever formulated in our history, and still regarding it as the necessary ultimate solution of the transportation problem, it might be supposed that Mr. Bryan was incapacitated for leadership in a return to Jeffersonian laissez-faire simplicity. Having himself favored the licensing by the federal authorities of all corporations doing an interstate business, he might be held to have disqualified himself as a champion of non-interference with the states in the regulation of trade and commerce.

But appearances are often deceptive. Mr. Bryan is a philosopher of the nominalist school. He cares nothing about the content of his ideas if he can only have the last say in labeling them. According to his logic the President is a Hamiltonian, and anything he suggests is, therefore, to be repelled as a new step toward "centralization." Mr. Bryan is a Jeffersonian, and what he says and does must, therefore, be in full accord with Hamiltonian traditions. Government regulation of the railroads under Hamiltonian auspices is odious tyranny. But government regulation and even government ownership and operation under Jeffersonian auspices are a strict fulfillment of the negative and nullifying doctrines of the founders of the democratic party. Mr. Bryan is always willing to go back to Jefferson, for the simple reason that in politics the misbranding provisions of the pure food law do not yet apply.

PASSES

The Gazette has received a letter from the publicity agent of a large undertaking. The letter concludes with this sentence:

"Have you passes? If not, I should be delighted to forward you cards."

Passes? It seems as if we remember something of this kind in former days, but the word has become so obsolete of late that for a moment it conveyed no meaning. Passes? Are we not living in the year 1907 under the regime of anti-rebates, anti-labor, anti-union and the square deal, and not in the good old days when anybody who paid his fare on the railroad or into a show did so secretly for fear that some one would discover the fact and consider him as not of enough consequence to receive a pass?

The drop in prices on the New York stock exchange has caused many of the high-priced restaurants to close down until the hard times are over. It is different in Chicago though where money seems to be as plenty as ever.

For once France and Germany have agreed on a subject. Germany has decided to allow France to handle the Moroccan question to suit itself or in other words Germany will allow France an opportunity to take all the hard knocks it wants to.

The great pitfall of speculation does not lie alone in the great marts of the world. It may sometimes be found in the small cities where a hundred dollars is paid for the county agency of a spurious article.

Secretary Cartelou is going to help the poor bankers by giving them some money to count over. In many of the banks extra clerks have to be hired to keep count of what they have now.

Down in Panama they have had to quit work because they have spent all the money congress appropriated for their use. They worked faster than congress thought possible.

Businessmen who seek to announce to the public that they are in business by their signs often drop out of sight without the public knowing they ever existed.

Secretary Root, according to his trainer, is going to be the strongest man in Roosevelt's cabinet when he gets through with him. Well, he was—mentally—before.

The Wisconsin state fair promises to be a most interesting meeting place for all classes and conditions of people this year. Something is arranged for everyone.

Talk as they want to, Chicago must take its hat off to New York when it comes to being a financial center.

Surely no European nation would pick a war with us while our fleet is on the other side of the world.

It does not always hold that the water wagon driver is on the "water wagon."

Janesville has numerous cures that roam about and yet there is no dog tax.

PRESS COMMENT.

Two of a Kind

La Crosse Leader-Press: It will be easy for the public to believe what Francis E. McGovern and David S. Rose say about each other.

Time Only Will Tell

Ashland Press: Senator Stephenson's fishing trip usually results in the landing of various kinds of fish, big and little. It will take about two years, to find out what he landed last week.

No Need to Worry

Evening Wisconsin: The fact that one hog has just been sold at Whitehall, Illinois, for the sum of $5500 will have no effect on the retail price of pork. There are other hogs that can be had for less than that amount.

First Class, if Expensive

Chicago Record-Herald: It cost the United States $2,554,370 to maintain order in Cuba during the fiscal year recently ended. Well, we may at least have the satisfaction of knowing that it was a pretty good brand of order.

Had Better Not Try It

Herald Journal: A. W. Shattuck of the Jeffery Automobile company says newspapers make too much of auto accidents, and favors cutting off all advertising from papers that do this. Mr. Shattuck will find that he can not bottle up the press in his reports of crazy auto running by such threats.

Hooker Gaffe Swollen Fortunes

Green Bay Gazette: Tax Commissioner "Bill" Hooker of Milwaukee has gone to Chicago in search of millionaire residents of the Green city who are dodging their share of the taxes. Commissioner "Bill" stands as a wonder in the way of securing payments from the rich on their property, having added some $15,000,000 to the assessment rolls of his home town last year. His trip to Chicago this season gives promise of being crowned with success.

That Sweetheart's Make-up

La Crosse Tribune: That beautiful girl whom you worship as a pillar of unadulterated sweetness, doesn't contain three ounces of sugar. It has been shown by analysis that a young person weighing 151 pounds is composed of 96 pounds of water, 6 pounds of white of egg, a little glue, 3 1/2 pounds of fat, 8 1/2 pounds of phosphate of lime, three ounces of sugar and starch, 7 ounces of chloride of calcium, 6 ounces of phosphate of magnesium and a little ordinary table salt.

Real Indian Head on Penny

Exchange: A real Indian head will soon adorn all pennies coined by the United States mint at Philadelphia, announcement to this effect having been made recently. A radical change is made in the design of the cent and though the Indian head will be retained, it will bear little resemblance to the old one, and is expected to be more characteristic of the head of the American Indian with real head dress instead of the present design. The present Indian head is really a Canadian type, the face having been posed for by a little daughter of John M. Longacre, the engraver of the Philadelphia mint, who designed the present penny.

Why Wait?

Millwaukee News: Is there nothing that will soothe the melancholy of the Appleton Post—that will drive its grief away? Is there no potion that will cure it of its sorrow over the "outrage" of 2-cent fares? It is in-consolable and it refuses to be comforted. "When, where and how," it asks, "did the legislature find that a 2-cent fare would not be confiscatory when it passed the 2-cent fare act. The railways agreed with it when they placed tickets on sale at 2 cents a mile."

If the Post had stopped, looked and listened, it hardly would have asked a question the answer of which is so obvious. The legislature found that a 2-cent fare would not be confiscatory when it passed the 2-cent fare act. The railways agreed with it when they placed tickets on sale at 2 cents a mile.

If a 2-cent fare were confiscatory does the Post believe that the railways would have failed to invoke the protection of the courts—that they willingly would submit to the confiscation of their property. Why should it feel so grieved over their loss if they are content?

Transfer of the Alton

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The transfer of the Chicago & Alton to the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, better known as the Clover Leaf road, a corporation supposed to be one of Harriman's bitterest enemies, simply goes to show how feeble is the fame and power which this man seemed destined to enjoy. While Harriman juggled the Alton, and squeezed millions of profits out of it, he must now see the property transferred into the camp of the enemy, and the struggle for control in the railroad world renewed. The Clover Leaf, by reason of this new acquisition, enters the cities of Detroit, Toledo, St. Louis, Chicago, Peoria and Kansas City, by its own rails, and is therefore likely to be an important factor in transportation affairs. But the disappointment to Harriman is not the only interesting feature connected with the transaction. It shows that, in spite of the much talked of adverse legislation, and the federal policy of prosecuting violators of the Elkins law, there is an abiding faith in legitimate investments in railroads, otherwise it would have been impossible to effect such a sale.

Mistaken Molluscoiding of Crooks

La Crosse Leader-Press: In accordance with the parole law, which theoretic humanitarians put through the last legislature, nine convicts now in Waupun penitentiary are about to be turned loose among the people of this state. It is hoped that, profiting by the lesson they have received, they will turn their attention to honorable employment and will henceforth lead lives of useful citizenship, but it is more probable, everyone who has had experience will agree, that they will resume their unlawful callings and again prey upon the law-abiding element. If some of these men are not again in jail for fresh offenses before the time when their sentences in the penitentiary would have expired had they served them in full, a new record will have been made and police and prosecuting officers will be sorely tried. But in general the working of a criminal instinct precedes the commission of a criminal act and with such people punishment appeals to nothing but their fear. If they realize that swift and severe penalties will follow crime, they may refrain from it, but once let them understand that a term of 10 years in the penitentiary does not mean ten years (less the regular allowance for good behavior), and they will look upon the state's prison with less dread. Officers in charge at penitentiaries will tell you that many of their prisoners are serving second, third and fourth terms, while chiefs of police and sheriffs will say that they have a great deal of trouble with persons paroled from the reform schools and penitentiaries in other states.

The newly launched scheme of molluscoiding criminals is bound to result in ill to Wisconsin. It will tend to make the life of a dishonest man attractive, and the state at large, the law-abiding communities, will suffer from the increase in crime sure to follow.

Bringing Husband to Time

The colonial wife is not to be trifled with. When her husband goes "up country" and neglects to return within a fair and reasonable time, she simply advertises for him. Here is a recent advertisement from an Australian paper: "If my husband, A. B., does not answer this advertisement in three weeks, I intend to get married. Signed C. D."—Royal Magazine.

Unpleasant Idea

One reason why an argument is so unpleasant is that one is often forced to believe that one might possibly be mistaken some time.

Bitter Cry.

To cultivate a desirable, elevating and charming social set is as much the province of parents as to feed and clothe their progeny. Nevertheless the bitter cry of the British daughter is heard in the land. "We know no few people. We hardly ever see a man."—London (England) World.

Exploration by Balloon.

The value of the balloon for the exploration of the upper atmosphere has long been recognized, and in France, at least, under the direction of M. Hermite, a series of experiments were carried out which proved to be not only interesting but of the first importance. Of course, these exploring balloons carried no passengers, and one reached the unprecedented altitude of ten miles.

Boots Worn by Great Protector.

In London the other day a pair of riding boots worn by Oliver Cromwell were sold for $13. They were discovered 30 years ago during some excavations at Capenbury tower, Islington.

Curse of Indecision.

The man who is always making advice from everybody never takes it from anybody. He is much too weak minded even to make up his mind as to which advice suits him and the best, and he lives in a perpetual state of indecision which the earnestly expressed opinions of his friends and acquaintances only serve to aggravate. The end of such a man is confusion and disaster, which are really all that he deserves.—London Weekly Dispatch.

Authors Living on Farms.

Some one has been looking up the subject and finds that most of the successful woman writers have forsaken city flats and are doing their work on farms, hired men doing the work while the authors write in peace and quiet.

Watches Instead of Medals.

According to a Nouchatel correspondent, the watch factories in that town are extraordinarily busy, owing to a huge order for "War Watches" which has been received from the Japanese government. The watches are thin and of good finish, with oxidized metal cases, and are intended for presentation to the Mikado's soldiers and sailors, as mementos of their successes in the war with Russia.

Superstitious Mexicans

Mexicans enjoy the well-earned reputation of being one of the most superstitious races of the world. Superstition exists wherever there is a human being, but Mexico seems to be the place where all human superstitions are centered. To such an extent is this true that superstition has become almost a kind of religion, governing every act of the people.

Never lose an opportunity of seeing anything beautiful. Welcome it in every fair face, every fair sky, every fair flower, and thank him for it who is the fountain of all loveliness, and drink it simply and earnestly with all your eyes; it is a charmed draught, a cup of blessing.—Charles Kingsley.

RIVERVIEW PARK PEOPLE ASK $3.100 DAMAGES FROM CITY

Claim That Grading Operations Recently Completed There Wrought Great Injury to Their Property.

Four blue covered invitations from a like number of residents in River-view Park, urging the city to pay $3,100 damages for grading operations in that locality, were received at the office of City Clerk Badger this morning. The invitations were presented with the compliments of Attorney John Cunningham, Flaher & Oestreich. Complainers affirm that the street assessment committee, while pretending to assess benefits and damages prior to the beginning of the work, in reality assessed only benefits and those on a perfectly uniform and manifestly unfair scale owing to the numerous cuts and fills made necessary by the laying out of the streets; that the assessments were therefore arbitrary and void. And in connection with this charge the further one is advanced that no established grade of the street was filed with the city clerk prior to the beginning of grading operations, as required by law. Emma J. Farney, who owns lot 28 of Carlington, Wheeler & Whitehead's addition, fronting on Wheeler street, at the southeast corner of the Garfield avenue intersection, values her property at $2,500 and wants $600 damages. Frank W. Hahn, owner of a lot on Garfield avenue which he values at $700, wants $400. Fred J. Clifton, who values his lot on Logan street, wants $600. Pauline Robinson, who values her lot at the corner of Carlington street and Garfield avenue at $3,000, wants $1,500 damages. The notices will come before the city council for consideration at the next regular meeting.

KICKERS' KOLUM

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 27, 1907.
Editor Gazette—Dear Sir:
Don't you think that the Florence Dugan trial is of more public interest than most people think? If this trial is dragged along for a period, I ask: Who is paying for it? It is getting time that the people who pay for all such foolish criminal acts investigate the facts. I, for my part, think that Mr. Schumacher ought to know that a man who looks and behaves as if he must take the consequences of any act resorted to by such a woman. I blame the man more than the woman and go free, as a man leaves no record behind for his actions while a woman is disgraced forever.
Respectfully,
H. C. DREYER.

121—Public sympathy, in general, appears to be with the woman in this case. It is just possible that this sympathy is misplaced. At any rate, the man who was shot down is entitled to a hearing and the jury which is to pass on the matter should be in possession of definite information as to the probable outcome of that shooting, which, even though justified by other standards, was against all written law. The State has sought delay in order that it might be determined whether or not a murder had been committed. But the defense, also, was responsible for the four weeks' postponement of the trial, the attorney requiring considerable time to prepare his case. The expense of a trial which has not yet been commenced will not be measurably increased by the delay.

CHAPTER XIV.

"I AM glad to see you, my friend," said O'Neill, smiling at him in a melancholy way.

"Would God that I could see you in any place but this!" answered the young Englishman.

"Ah, yes," replied O'Neill, his eyes lightening. "Then we might fight it out, man to man, sword to sword, and—"

"Not so," merrily replied Coventry. "The battle has been fought, and you have won again. Whether you live or die, Elizabeth Howard is not for me."

"My poor friend, may the day upon which I crossed your path be accursed! I have brought to each of you nothing but sorrow," replied the young sailor sadly, touched at the other's surrender.

"It was fate, O'Neill. Do not reproach yourself with that. All day long I have been striving to think of some means to delay this accursed execution until I could communicate with the king. An appeal to his clemency might—"

"No more of that if you love me, Coventry," said O'Neill gravely. "But yourself in my place. Could you do it? Ah, you shake your head, you see! Neither could I, not even to purchase heaven." There was a long pause between them.

"O'Neill," said the Englishman at last, "would that I could take your place."

"But you cannot, Major Coventry," replied the other gravely. "You honor me in the thought, but if you could I should refuse to allow it. You are the better man. All my life I have been a gay, reckless, pleasure-seeking soldier of fortune, with never a serious purpose until now, and now it is too late! You are the worthy one, and you must live to watch over and to care for her whom we both love. Perhaps—surely—in days to come she will forget; time, absence, you know—she will reward your devotion—she must—"

"You will be happy?" His voice broke, and he turned away his face and looked out of the open port. Coventry shook his head.

"You know her not, sir. She is not for me, nor would I take her, loving you. My love is too deep for that. Nor would she come. She will never forget you," O'Neill's heart leaped at this assurance.

The ship's bell on the deck above them struck four times. It was a clock! There was a little silence within the screen.

"The hour approaches," said O'Neill softly at last. "I would be alone for a few moments before—"

"Yes," said the other, rising and pressing his hand. "Have you nothing to say, no message to send to—"

"Nothing—nothing," he bested so. You will come for me at the time?"

"Yes, and I will stand by you to the end, like a soldier."

"You do me great honor," replied the other thankfully. Coventry looked at him a moment, shook his head and turned away.

In the prayers of the young Irishman the face of the girl he loved would obtrude itself. It seemed but a moment before he heard the tramp of armed men coming along the deck.

They stopped before the screen. It was opened, and Coventry, pale as death, presented himself at the opening. The screen was promptly folded back, there were men fully armed before it, the captain, too, in the white robes of his office.

"I am ready, gentlemen," said O'Neill calmly. "May I not go to my death unharmed?" he asked.

"The ship's bell on the deck above them struck four times. It was a clock! There was a little silence within the screen."

"The hour approaches," said O'Neill softly at last. "I would be alone for a few moments before—"

"Yes," said the other, rising and pressing his hand. "Have you nothing to say, no message to send to—"

"Nothing—nothing," he bested so. You will come for me at the time?"

At a nod from Coventry the matter at arms unlocked the fetters about his feet and hands. The prisoner took his place in the midst of the little squad of men and ascended to the spar deck. The ship's company of marines was drawn up aft on the quarter deck. Most of the seamen of the crew were arranged in orderly ranks in the starboard gangway. Forward a grating had been rigged on the bulwarks under the port fore yardarm. A new rope led from the grating up through the block in the yardarm, came aboard to another block under the top and thence through a block fixed to the deck. Some sixty or seventy men chosen by lot from the ship's company had hold of the rope which was led aft along the port gangway. In front of the marines stood Captain Pearson and his officers in full uniform. The prisoner was halted before him.

"Are you aware, sir," said the captain gravely, "that the hour for the carrying out of the sentence of the court approaches?"

"Yes, sir," answered O'Neill courtly.

"Have you anything to say before that time?"

"I have to thank you all for your kindness to me; nothing else, sir."

"Allow me, sir," said the captain, "to assure you of the great personal distance and regret I feel at being compelled to take this action."

"Your feelings do you honor, sir," replied O'Neill gravely. "But it is a matter of duty. Pray proceed."

"Captain Pearson," said Coventry in great agitation, "can nothing be done to delay this execution a few hours?"

"Are there considerations, sir, in my possession which, I feel sure, would incline his majesty, could he be communicated with, to extend clemency to this gentleman—"

"Are these circumstances within the knowledge of Lord Westbrooke, Major Coventry?" answered the captain, surprised at the unusual nature of the interruption.

"They are, sir."

"Have you mentioned them to him? Have you called his attention specifically to them, I mean?"

"Yes, sir, I have," answered the soldier reluctantly.

"And they have evidently not influenced him, you see. Therefore I fail to see how I can permit them to weigh with me."

"But a delay, sir, of a day, of an hour even, until I can communicate with the admiral again? For God's sake, sir, do not hang this gentleman like—"

"Major Coventry, you are a soldier and should not make such an appeal. I have my orders. You have shown me no cause to disregard them. I cannot take it upon myself to do so, I dare not."

"But an hour, sir, until I—"

"Not a moment. At five bells they must be carried out," said the captain inflexibly. "No more, sir," he added as Coventry made an impetuous step forward. "I have indulged you too long already. Mr. Pascoe, take the prisoner forward."

"It is useless, Coventry. Why prolong this agony longer? You have done what you could. I thank you and bless you," said O'Neill as they walked along the deck to the place of the grating.

"Will you please step up here, sir?" said Pascoe, the first lieutenant of the Scorpions, who had the matter in charge, pointing to the grating on the rail as they came abreast of it.

"It is a fair and easy place from which to step to heaven, sir, or to the other place as well," said the Irishman, smiling, as he stepped on the rail. "I pray you to tell your men to start me on my way with a quick pull and a swift run," Pascoe nodded in comprehension. This would be a case in which speed would be merited.

A boatwain's mate now stepped up beside the prisoner and bound his feet and hands with a lashing. A hangman's knot had been made by expert fingers in the rope leading from the yardarm, and the running noose was quickly cast about O'Neill's neck.

"The collar of an ancient order, this," observed O'Neill, still smiling. "And now one last request, sir," he added, turning to the lieutenant.

"And that is?"

"Throw away that black cap, sir. Let me go with my eyes open." The lieutenant hesitated a moment. The whole ship's company was filled with admiration for the intrepid and gallant Irishman.

"No, sir, for God's sake, Pascoe!" whispered Coventry, springing up alongside O'Neill and the sailor, who to avoid him, stepped back and stood on the rail by the fore shrouds.

"What are you doing there, Major Coventry?" answered Pascoe.

"Nothing. I promised to stand by him to the last," replied Coventry. The other hesitated a moment and then threw the cap into the water.

"I thank you," said O'Neill huskily. "How much time is there?"

"About two minutes, I think," said the lieutenant nervously.

"You will run away with the fall at the first or last stroke of the bell?"

"The last, sir."

"No more," said O'Neill to Coventry, turning his face in the direction of the shore. The deep voice of the white-robed priest alone broke the silence.

"Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets of our hearts; shut not thy merciful ears to our prayer; but spare us, Lord most holy, O God most mighty, O holy and merciful Saviour. Thou most worthy Judge eternal, suffer us not, at our last hour, for any pains of death, to fall from thee."

Out on the water a white saild little boat was speeding swiftly toward them. There was a woman in it. The eyes of love, even in the presence of death, are keen, perhaps even keener than those of life. It was Elizabeth Howard. O'Neill recognized her at once. Good heaven! Why had she come here? She would arrive in time to see him swinging lifeless from the yardarm—a hideous sight for any woman. He could not take his eyes from her.

"See," he whispered to Coventry. "That boat yonder! She is there."

"My God," said the officer. "What shall we do?"

"Nothing," he said. "She has something in her hand."

"Forward, there!" cried the captain, watching in hand. "Strike the bell five!"

The mellow tones of the first couplet of the ship's bell rang out in obedience to the command. The hour was come. It was his death signal, but O'Neill never turned his head from the approaching boat. The old quartermaster struck the bell deliberately, lingering over it reluctantly. A little shiver ran through the men.

"Stand by!" shouted the lieutenant in a voice he strove in vain to make firm. "Make a quick jerk and a lively run, lads, for God's sake!"

The men grasped the rope more firmly and sprang into position for the jump. The next couplet was struck on the bell. The boat was nearer now. Coventry saw that the woman waved something that looked like a paper in her hand. "The last stroke of the bell rang out on the breathless, silent ship."

"Set him!" cried the lieutenant hoarsely. The men leaped forward instantly to the shrill piping of the boatwain and his mate. "Sway away!" he cried.

The tightened rope caught the Irishman by the throat. A lightning flash seemed to cleave the skies. He saw, as in a vision, a great ball hung with arms, a picture frame, a woman radiant, beautiful, her eyes shining, an upraised hand, like silver bells a voice murmured, "I love him, I love him!"

She moved—no, a phantom hand caught him by the throat. He strove to cry out. It clutched him tighter and tighter. Blackness like a pall fell before him, shutting out the smiling face—death—agonies—he saw no more. He swung into the air and was nothing.

The quick eye of Major Coventry had detected at last what the girl was waving.

"That paper!" he cried frantically as the last bell struck. "It must be a reprieve. The admiral has relented."

Was it too late? Quick as thought he snatched the sheath knife from the belt of the sailor near him. It was too late to stop the men on the rope even had he possessed the power, but as O'Neill rose in the air he caught him around the waist and with one rapid blow severed the straining rope above his head. Assisted at once by the sailor alongside of him, they lowered the bound, unconscious man upon the deck beneath them. It was all done in the twinkling of an eye. The men on the ship broke out in ringing cheers.

Queensland's Valuable Asset. As a national asset Queensland's 40,000,000 acres of forests have been set down by experts at £100,000,000. Nevertheless, up till a few years since nearly all the soft woods used in the state were imported—mostly from America.

To Stop Snoring. A medical journal submits the following advice for the benefit of a lady who wishes to cure her husband of the habit of snoring: "Raise your self softly on your elbow and gently but firmly bite his nose."—Judge.
